46th Annual Pancake Breakfast: Kiwanis

Havanabama is excited to not only attend but help in sponsoring Pancake Day, to support the Kiwanis club of Huntsville.

This local tradition of hotcakes and sausage enables The Kiwanis Club of Huntsville to continue its one hundred year mission to serve children and youth of the Madison County Community.

Join us on February 24 at Huntsville High school, between 7am- 12pm and enjoy a scrumptious breakfast while making a positive difference!

"Greetings from Havanabama" postcard

Send your loved ones our exclusive "Greetings from Havanabama" postcard, featuring the talented work of Huntsville local artist, Ashli Ingram. I wanted her artwork to capture the fusion of Havanabama in Huntsville, by incorporating Cuban staples among some of Huntsville's historic places. Each postcard is a small piece of art, perfect for sending warm wishes and sharing your love for all things Cuban and Huntsville.

Visit our shop to explore the collection and support local talent!

January Bestsellers:

- Empanadas de carne (83)
- Pastelitos de guayaba y queso (80)
- Pastelitos de queso (71)

With the orders we got in January, we raised $44 to go toward the end of year, Holiday give back program.

Every order I get, I set aside $1.

Let's see how much we can raise in February.

Cuban word of the month:
JAMAR
[ha-mar]

Jamar = To eat
¿Que hay de jamar? What is there to eat?

Meet Denali: 100+ year old sourdough starter

Five Oaks Farm owner, Jenni Nymeyer, had asked her Instagram community for help in naming their 100+ year old sourdough starter. As an incentive, they would award the person with $40 to spend at their online store. Because I knew they moved here from Alaska, I suggested they pay homage to their home there. They picked the name Denali, for the tallest mountain and I got to purchase their homemade banneton covers, waxed bread bags and the famous freeze dried Denali.

Their goal is to produce nourishing products, with the most natural and healthy methods available. For updates on their seasonal produce and events, make sure to subscribe to their email list.
